

12th Annual World Congress on Anti Aging in Las Vegas in December 2004. Workshop for ONDAMED

ONDAMED

THE INVISIBLE CHANGE

From Dr. Wolf-Dieter Kessler

Dr. Kevin Bethel from Nassau, Bahamas was stunned, when one of my nurses told him, he was going to have a sinus infection. Scanning him with ONDAMED's specific frequencies she not only detected his sciatic problem but foremost an inflammation in his sinuses. "You will have some reaction after this biofeedback", Antje told him, "it may take a couple of hours for the lymph to react.." Bethel had an astounding discharge hours later accompanied even with some bloody mucus. After that he felt fine and relieved.

Attending the 12th Annual World Congress on Anti Aging in Las Vegas in December, 2004, Bethel became interested in one of the most promising biophysical feedback devices.

Bethel was very excited sharing this information with others in a conference call a week later.

Working with biophysics for almost 6 years now, I am frequently invited to present empirical facts on many different locations both in Europe and in the United States. On 2nd November 2004, the election day and the day my family received permanent residency in the United States, I was honoured by WBAI radio in New York to speak on biophysics for 60 minutes. It was aired from the Empire State Building.

"Why ONDAMED?" Dr. Sherman asked connecting in from Ontario, Canada.

All the others (Steven Harris, DC, Alberta, Canada, Mirkl, Ontario, Canada, Tal Lally, Los Angeles, and Dr. Bethel) listened carefully to me approaching them from Barnesville, Georgia:

"It is very simple to understand, indeed," I jump started. "

As you all know, the problem in healing is the non responding patient. Frustration of the patient and the therapist has been my daily partner over now 32 years of practicing medicine. Take a case of Tinnitus, Glaucoma, Rheumatism, Fibromyalgia, Chronic Fatigue, Atrial Fibrillation, Allergies, Asthma, Intestinal Diseases or Depression, it will always be the same:

Do you understand where it came from and where and what to treat with what? Of course not!

In most cases neither the therapist nor the patient have the slightest clue where it came from or even the interconnectivity of such problem.

Using biophysics, however, – as described above – I would find the interconnected inflammatory or blocked sites within minutes. On my Tinnitus patient, for instance, I found specific reactions at his neck, the sinuses, the left ear, and the right kidney with a frequency relating to the smaller intestine.

In a heartbeat I have achieved a very strong approach to address the patient: your Tinnitus is related to dysfunctions of the smaller intestine, the neck, the left ear, and the right kidney.

Consequently several therapeutic steps were at hand:

First: one would apply the patient's specific biophysical frequencies to these areas (as we have done it with you, Dr. Bethel, in Las Vegas).

Second: – since the smaller intestine is involved - we would evaluate key food intolerances such as dairy, wheat, gluten, and sugar.

Third: we need to scroll through ONDAMED's frequencies for parasites, viruses, candida, fungus, and bacteria as we know that especially parasites could impair functions of the smaller intestine. In this case the patient's pulse responded to candida and we needed to apply candida frequencies.

Fourth: I would consider natural medication for the kidneys, the ears, the smaller intestine, the neck including osteopathic help.

Fifth: I would scroll through ONDAMED's 172 preset biofeedback programs. The program reacting to the pulse of the patient would be applied to the patient. In this case it may be number 70 (a lymph program). This again makes me prescribe an additional lymph remedy.

Such a protocol is not only beneficent for the patient but also for the therapist as she/he will have clear data to approach and explain the interconnectivity of the health disorder to the patient. Can you feel the trust which is built up by the therapist by this approach?

This device has changed the face of my clinic.”

“How long do I need to be trained?” asked Dr. Sherman. “It takes about 5 days to become capable of independent working at the patient, “ I replied, “ albeit I delegate this to a technician. I am working with twenty nurses and three units in my clinic in Germany.”

“How do you explain the function of this device,” Sherman continued.

“ For about 25 years a specific biophysical biofeedback system the “ONDAMED” (Onda=wave) (Med=medical) has been subject of intensive research and breakthrough.

Looking back a hundred years ago,” I said, “ X ray had been discovered which is a kind of electromagnetic wave. Fifty years later some scientist proposed to take images of the electromagnetic! emissionsof the cells of our body. These people have been declared “idiots”. Since 1970ies, however, the MRI has become routine in our hospitals. It is doing just that: taking images of the EM emissions of our cells. For 25 years specific EM waves are being applied very effectively as biofeedback to the ailing patient such as the ONDAMED. These specific induction-waves stimulate a very specific response interacting with the controlling life fields of our cells.

You might want to remember, that our world of healing is inevitable correlated with our culture and philosophy. Philosophy is forming the image of man. Both our Asian and Greek cultures postulate forces which are superior to the organs and would be responsible for organ function. Physics had been identified as the primary source of life not only by the Greek mathematician Pythagoras who found the mathematical rhythm (physics) as the primary impulse of forming matter. The mathematical algorithms of the ONDAMED join the most modern research of Persinger, 1995 “algorithmic electromagnetic remote control of every human brain” . Also remember Becker and Seldon, 1985, who could make also a frog regrow an amputated leg as the salamander can, when they changed the electromagnetic field of the frog’s stump like the salamander does.

If you may have to consider your own healing tomorrow, you may sense that not until disease is understood as a status and not as a monster, we will touch the soul of the problem. Disease seems to be a vital process and a sequence of phenomena which are running on an energetic level (Proceso S. Ortega).
